Our contribution to United Nations International Year of Crystallography

It is our wish that any school teacher or college professor, anywhere in the world, can use our movie as a didactic tool in order to get a closer look -as thousands of young students have already done it- at the fascinating world of Crystallography. This is why our best efforts have been oriented to the free, widespread exhibition of our movie.

The Mystery of the Giant Crystals is now available FREE through our website, where it can be viewed in video streaming, high-quality 1080p image resolution, with narration and/or subtitles in four languages. More language versions are on their way.

You can also help us to make this and other projects a widespread reality with a donation.

Your contribution will help us keep this website open, and ensure the movie and other resources remain available to students and educators around the world. It will also help us to add more language versions of the movie, to make new videos and documents, and to keep bringing the amazing world of crystals closer to you.
